

Teruo ARIYAMA, Information Hegemony and Imperial Japan, in 3 vols., Yoshikawa-kobunkan, 2013, 2106.

Vol. I Submarine Cables and Birth of News Agencies: 1850s to 1920s

Part I Submarine Cables and the Arrival of News Agencies to Japan

Chapter 1. Japan and the 19th Century Information Hegemony of Great Britain

Chapter 2. The Arrival upon Japan of Submarine Cables of the Great Northern Telegraph Company

Chapter 3. The Reuters' Advance to Japan

Chapter 4. The Revision of Submarine Cable Agreement in 1882 – The Submarine Cables between Nagasaki and Busan and the Bestowment of Monopoly to the Great Northern Telegraph Company

Part II The Desire for the International News Communication

Chapter 1. The Beginning of the Activities of the News Agencies: 1870s – 1880s

Chapter 2. Lively Activities of the International News Supplies since the Chino-Japanese War of 1894-95

Chapter 3. The Rise of Independence Policy from the Great Northern Telegraph Company and Its High Barrier

Part III The Birth of Imperial Japan and the Control of the Western Information

Chapter 1. The Formation of Overseas News Broadcast after the Russo-Japanese War and Its Difficulties

Chapter 2. The Inauguration of the International News Agency and the Change of International Information Distribution in the period of WWI

Chapter 3. Propaganda against China and the Need for Integrated Propaganda Policy

Vol. II. The Expansion of Communication Technology and Propaganda Wars

Part IV Diastrophism of the International System of Information

Chapter 1. Trembling of the Western Hegemony of Information and Japanese Challenge

Chapter 2. The Appearance of Wireless Communication and the Struggle for Information Hegemony

Chapter 3. The Establishment and Activities of the General Newspaper Company (Shinbun-sogo-sha)

Chapter 4. 1930 as a Turning Point and the Negotiation with China over Communication

Chapter 5. The Manchurian Incident as an Information War

Chapter 6. Diastrophism of International News and the General Newspaper Company

Part V Japanese Hegemony over East-Asian Information and Its Collapse

Chapter 1. A Plan for Establishing a National News Agency

Chapter 2. The Establishment of the Union News Agency (Domei-tsusinsha)

Chapter 3. Expansion of the Union News Agency and the Information Hegemony

Chapter 4. Usage of New Radio Wave for Correspondence and the Information Hegemony

Chapter 5. Expansion of the Electric Communication Policy

Chapter 6., “The World War of Ideology” and Its End

Vol.III. Communication Network in East Asia and the Japanese Control of Communication in Korea

Part I Expansion Policy depending upon the Western Capital

Chapter 1. Bestowment of Monopoly upon the Great Northern Telegraph Company and Laying Submarine Cables to Korea

Chapter 2. Installation of Chino-Korea Electric Cables and Japanese Abandonment of Monopoly

Chapter 3. The Seoul-Busan Cable Problem and the Underwater Conflict Concerning the Northeast-Asian Telegraph Network

Part II. The Contradiction between Expansion and Dependence

Chapter 4. The Outbreak of the Chino-Japanese War and the Telegraph Problem of Korea

Chapter 5. The Policy of Permenentizing Telegraph Control in Korea and Its Confusion

Chapter 6. The Russo-Japanese Shared Concession and the Telegraph in Korea

Chapter 7. The Move to the Independent Expansion

Chapter 8. The Relationship between China, Japan, Korea and Russia over the Connection of the Korea-Russia Telegraph Cable

Part III. From Dependent Expansion to Independent Expansion

Chapter 9. The Occupation and the Annexation of Korean Telegraph Agencies Caused by the Russo-Japanese War

Chapter 10. The Purchase of Tsushima-Busan Cables and the Communication Hegemony in Northeast Asia

有山輝雄

海底ケーブルと通信社の誕生

情報覇権と 帝国日本 I

膨張する西欧列強の「帝国の道具」
国際通信網に
日本は食い込めるのか？

ロイター通信社・時事通信社・
日本電報通信社(電通)・共同通信社…

吉川弘文館

定価(本体 4,700 円+税)

海底ケーブルと通信社の誕生

情報覇権と

の
得をめぐる
と挫折。

本体 4,700 円+税)

情報覇権と

言線を

韓国、ロシア、
一ク大北電信…

通信史！

(本体 4,500 円+税)

(本体 4,200 円+税)